| @chatchavan onApr 11, 2025 12:20:      | I think the easiest way is to link Zenodo with this Github repo (or your original repo, if linking with this one is not possible). Zenodo will fetch a snapshot of all files and create a DOI for the repository.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
